1943

"I wish my brother and I were drafted into World War II. I wish we were born and raised. We had never been in conditions where we were required to eat, drink, work, play, and live under segregated conditions."

1948

Stokes uses the GI Bill to obtain an undergraduate degree from Western Reserve University.

1953

He gets a law degree from Cleveland-Marshall College of Law and launches a legal practice that stresses civil rights cases. After Carl Stokes graduates from law school, the pair opens a law office together - Minoo Stokes and Stokes.

In 1960 Louis marries Jeanette (J.) Frances and they raise four children together: Shelly, Chuck, Angela and...

1965

Stokes challenges an Ohio congressional redistricting map that split Cleveland congressional districts to dilute black voting strength. The U.S. Supreme Court eventually agrees with Stokes, leading to the creation of Ohio's first majority black congressional district.

1967

Stokes argues Terry vs. Ohio before the U.S. Supreme Court, a landmark case that set guidelines for when police can stop and frisk people.

The Congressman

1968

Louis Stokes never wanted to be a politician. He had signs set on becoming a great lawyer. He was elected to Congress in 1969 and stayed in the House for 30 years.

The congressman was gracious, personable and always understanding.

During his time in Washington

- Stokes co-leads Congressional Black Caucus and later serves as the group's chairman.
- Chairs the Select Committee on Assassinations, which probes the murders of Martin Luther King, Jr. and John F. Kennedy.
- Chairs the House Ethics Committee, which investigates scandals involving African, vice presidential candidate Geraldine Ferraro, and sexual abuse of congressional pages. He leaves the post in 1985 but returned to lead the panel again for a time in 1991.
- Chairs the House Intelligence Committee.
- Becomes chairman of an Appropriations subcommittee that funds research and housing programs, giving him huge power over federal spending.
- Law triple bypass surgery in 1996 at the Cleveland Clinic. His brother, Carl, dies the same year which diminishes Louis's enthusiasm for politics.

1998

Louis Stokes obtains his retirement from Congress after an illustrious 35 years. At the time of his departure, he leads 13th as seniority among 335 House members.

After Louis Stokes retires from Congress he joins the Faculty of Case Western Reserve University's Mandel School of Applied Social Sciences, signs on at the Squire Sanders & Dempsey law firm and begin work on a biography.
